Your Kua Number

Element: Big Earth

Color: Yellow, Ochre

Group: West

Trigram: Kan

How to Tap Your Auspicious Directions

- Try to sleep, eat, work, or be in this sector of your home
- Do as many activities as possible in this sector
- Face this direction when working, eating, or sitting in your living room
- Sleep with the top of your head pointed in this direction
- Enter your home or office from a door that faces these direction

Your Wealth & Success Direction: Northeast

Enhance this direction with stones, candles, bright lights, vases, crystal, or porcelain. If your front door is located here, you will be recognized by someone of prominence. Add eight bright lights to this area to bring added recognition to you. Eight small crystals or stones also add extra good chi to this success location.

Do everything you can to use this direction to promote your wealth and success! Images of maps, globes, and those that depict destinations are perfect for placing on the wealth and success wall of your home or office.

Your Health Direction: West

A front door located here will also bring honor from someone of prominence. Enhance this location with metal objects or stone objects to give health a boost. Eat or work in this location when getting over an illness. Use objects in groups of seven, such as seven crystal balls. Decorate in colors of white, gray, or silver.

Your Love Direction: Northwest

The northwest is the "heaven" location and benefits from having round shapes here. Stimulate romance by putting a small fan on a 6-rod hollow windchime. Enhance this area to create good relationships with anyone. Add a stereo or radio here to enhance your love life.

Your Growth Direction: Southwest

In personal feng shui, the southwest is your growth and wisdom direction. Work in this location to improve your standing, study in this direction, and locate beneficial activities here, such as dining to improve all areas of life. Are you trying to start over from any kind of setback? If so, this is direction to face or be in. Enhance this area with globes, vases, or pictures of mountains or maps.

Your Unlucky Directions: East, Southeast, South, North

Try to avoid the east sector and/or direction. To do so can cause arguments and legal problems or some kind of accident. You will receive blame for problems if you occupy this sector too much.

The southeast and south can cause accidents, misfortune, and difficulties, such as lawsuits, burglary or fire. If your front door faces this direction, your family may leave you. If you have a business with a front door facing this direction, employees may leave. This is a good location for a kitchen or toilet.

Strenuously avoid the north because it is the VERY worst direction for you. A front door facing this direction can lead to a loss of children or other close family members. Infertility can also arise, causing the family name to die out. Wealth will also be lost. This is a good location for a kitchen or a toilet.

Kua Number FAQ'S

How do I incorporate my kua number without worrying that something terrible will happen if my bedroom is in my worst direction or the house doesn't face my auspicious directions?

This is something that many people worry about, but please don't stress too much. Although you have both auspicious and inauspicious directions and their descriptions can be worrisome, it doesn't mean you're doomed, so put your mind at ease!

Everyone needs to have all directions in their homes, so each direction has its role in your life and your home. You just want to bear in mind which directions are more favorable for you.

On the first page, there are suggestions about how to use your kua number to “Tap Your Auspicious Directions.” Try to follow these recommendations as best you can to get the most beneficial energy for your life, but don’t over stress about the inauspicious directions.

Whose kua number is more important – mine or my partner/spouse?

This is a question that gets asked a lot. The answer is decidedly old fashioned. Basically, you should always try to favor the breadwinner’s directions. However, that doesn’t mean you don’t matter – far from it. If the breadwinner is a woman, then her directions will take precedence. If it’s a man, then use his.

I’m confused about what I should follow – my personal feng shui or my personal zodiac sign. Can you help me?

This is a typical question that comes in my email inbox and I thought it would be helpful to share my answer with everyone. In my own personal feng shui, I’m a 4 kua (east person) and I am a Water Tiger.

Now, as a water tiger with a 4 kua, I’m very compatible with both my zodiac sign, element and kua number.

But if you’re a kua 5 metal rat, then for example, you have very different qualities associated with your kua number and your zodiac sign and that could be at odds with each other.

This can create quite a bit of confusion for a lot of people, so you’re not alone. What I find is that most people identify with an element or identity more than another. So, if you identify with the earthiness of being a 5 kua than the watery element of the rat or the metal element with your birth year, then work with your kua 5 qualities.

Here’s what’s important to know, though, and that is no matter what you pick, you’re right! So just pick the one that feels the most right to you.

I want to turn my bed to my most auspicious direction, but that puts the door to my bedroom behind me. Is that OK?

It’s tempting to try to always face our favorable directions, but it’s not good feng shui to do that and not use the command position – which is where you can be in bed and see the door from your bed. This is called following good “form” feng shui. Always have your bed or desk arranged so that you are in the command position ahead of trying to tap your personal feng shui directions. This is always the better choice.

What else can you tell me about my personal kua number?

Below are some more details about your kua number, and an image that also might be helpful to understanding your personal feng shui qualities and personality.

I hope it helps you to understand your personal feng shui energies better and to find an affinity for those energies that makes sense – and good feng shui – for you.

2 Kua – The Majestic Mountain.

The 2 kua is associated with big earth and the image of a mountain is a beautiful symbol of your strength and steadfastness.

Find an image that you relate to such as Mt. Everest, Yosemite or another strong beautiful mountain.

Because you are of the earth element, look to the element of fire, as this is the element that produces earth. This makes all colors of red, purple, pink, orange and yellow very auspicious for you, making them a great fashion choice when getting dressed.

The numbers 2 and 9 can also bring you good luck. In fact, these two numbers can be looked at as your lucky numbers.

The number 2 is especially lucky after the day of your birth.

Always have pairs to make you feel grounded and secure. This can be pairs of lamps on either side of the bed or pairs of plants or fu dogs flanking your front door or matching bracelets.

The southwest is your personal growth direction and can help you get ahead. Wearing tan, red, and yellow colors is beneficial for you as are rubies, amethyst, citrine and pink or yellow diamonds.

Bring great luck with lights of every kind – candles, twinkle lights or golden sunlight to your home and office. Keeping your home brightly lit is helpful for your energy.
