How to Tap Your Auspicious Directions

- Try to sleep, eat, work, or be in this sector of your home
- Do as many activities as possible in this sector
- Face this direction when working, eating, or sitting in your living room
- Sleep with the top of your head pointed in this direction
- Enter your home or office from a door that faces these direction

Your Wealth & Success Direction: East

Enhance this direction with plants, such as large trees, or bamboo to symbolize growing success. Flank either side of your desk with tall trees, such as Ficus, and light them with tiny white lights to give your success a huge boost! Enhance this area with water symbols such as fish or turtles or frogs, or use actual water here and put in an aquarium, pond, or fountain. Group plants into threes to maximize the energy in this location. A front door facing this direction creates noteworthy sons.

Do everything you can to use this direction to promote your wealth and success! Tree and forest images are perfect for placing on the wealth and success wall of your home or office because they symbolize the "big wood" element -- and because you are a "fire" person, big wood makes a big fire and that means more success and wealth!

Your Health Direction: Southeast

Eat or work in this location when getting over an illness or to boost health. Use small plants and water in this location. Try to eat facing this direction to derive added healthful benefits from your food. Sleeping with your head pointing in this direction will also help you if you are trying to become healthier or recover from an injury.

Your Love Direction: North

A front door facing this direction will increase your prosperity! Facing north will also help improve your love life. Arguing with your loved ones? Try facing north while dining to improve the relationships in your home. Boost the north with double fish symbols and/or an aquarium to give your love life and extra shot in the arm! Bubbling fountains are perfect romance energizers for singles looking for love.

Your Growth Direction: South

In personal feng shui, the south is your growth and wisdom direction. Work in this location to improve your standing, study in this direction, and locate beneficial activities here, such as dining to improve all areas of life. Are you trying to start over from any kind of setback? If so, this is direction to face or be in. Add plants in this location to help you get "growing" again! Plants will also help boost your writing prowess if you are an author.

Your Unlucky Directions: Northeast, West, Southwest, Northwest

Try to avoid the northeast sector and/or direction. To do so can cause arguments and legal problems or some kind of accident. You will receive blame for problems if you occupy this sector too much or if your front door faces this direction.

The west and southwest can cause accidents, misfortune, and difficulties, such as lawsuits, burglary or fire. If your front door faces this direction, your family may leave you. If you have a business with a front door facing this direction, employees may leave. This is a good location for a kitchen or toilet.

Strenuously avoid the northwest because it can cause it is the VERY worst direction for you. A front door facing this direction can lead to a loss of children or other close family members. Infertility can also arise, causing the family name to die out. Wealth will also be lost. This is a good location for a kitchen or a toilet.

Kua Number FAQ'S

How do I incorporate my kua number without worrying that something terrible will happen if my bedroom is in my worst direction or the house doesn't face my auspicious directions?

This is something that many people worry about, but please don't stress too much. Although you have both auspicious and inauspicious directions and their descriptions can be worrisome, it doesn't mean you're doomed, so put your mind at ease!

Everyone needs to have all directions in their homes, so each direction has its role in your life and your home. You just want to bear in mind which directions are more favorable for you.

On the first page, there are suggestions about how to use your kua number to "Tap Your Auspicious Directions." Try to follow these recommendations as best you can to get the most beneficial energy for your life, but don't over stress about the inauspicious directions.

Whose kua number is more important - mine or my partner/spouse?

This is a question that gets asked a lot. The answer is decidedly old fashioned. Basically, you should always try to favor the breadwinner's directions. However, that doesn't mean you don't matter - far from it. If the breadwinner is a woman, then her directions will take precedence. If it's a man, then use his.

I'm confused about what I should follow - my personal feng shui or my personal zodiac sign. Can you help me?

This is a typical question that comes in my email inbox and I thought it would be helpful to share my answer with everyone. In my own personal feng shui, I'm a 4 kua (east person) and I am a Water Tiger.

Now, as a water tiger with a 4 kua, I'm very compatible with both my zodiac sign, element and kua number.

But if you're a kua 5 metal rat, then for example, you have very different qualities associated with your kua number and your zodiac sign and that could be at odds with each other.

This can create quite a bit of confusion for a lot of people, so you're not alone. What I find is that most people identify with an element or identity more than another. So, if you identify with the earthiness of being a 5 kua than the watery element of the rat or the metal element with your birth year, then work with your kua 5 qualities.

Here's what's important to know, though, and that is no matter what you pick, you're right! So just pick the one that feels the most right to you.

I want to turn my bed to my most auspicious direction, but that puts the door to my bedroom behind me. Is that OK?

It's tempting to try to always face our favorable directions, but it's not good feng shui to do that and not use the command position – which is where you can be in bed and see the door from your bed. This is called following good “form” feng shui. Always have your bed or desk arranged so that you are in the command position ahead of trying to tap your personal feng shui directions. This is always the better choice.

What else can you tell me about my personal kua number?

Below are some more details about your kua number, and an image that also might be helpful to understanding your personal feng shui qualities and personality.

I hope it helps you to understand your personal feng shui energies better and to find an affinity for those energies that makes sense – and good feng shui – for you.

9 Kua – The Dancing Flame

The 9 kua is a happy person and always on the move. The 9 kua energy is filled with fire making it highly energetic. Your personal growth direction is south and you are energized by wooden objects such as beautiful furniture, red colors and plants and flowers. Keeping plants and flowers in your home and office will bring you great good fortune and energize you.

Be sure to enhance your home with images of birds or horses to stimulate even more success luck.

Stones such as emeralds, rose-tone gold, brown topaz, rubies, jade, and garnet all bring great energy and good fortune to 9 kuas. Wear colors of green, brown, and all tones of red from lightest pink to deepest purple to stimulate your personal energy and for wearing to important events and occasions.

Accent your home with candles, images of the sun and figures of the sun. Avoid wearing too many dark colors such as black as this will dampen your personal energy.

Your lucky numbers are 9 and 3. The number 9 is your luckiest number after the number of your date of birth. The number 3 represents great growth and helps to produce your personal energy.

Tap the south corner with images of sunset, flowers, birds or horse to promote your self-growth.
